Preparing for Shabbos

Simon 250

Seif 1 סעיף א

BASIS OF THIS SEIF Kavod Shabbos | Hachana

– One prepares for Shabbos in the morning – "and it shall be on the sixth day, and they shall prepare" (Shemos 16:5; MB 1); every person should do something himself, "for this is his dignity" (the seif; MB 3).

Melacha: None – the seif concerns preparation on Friday.

Background (general; not stated in the seif): Several of the Amoraim's preparations – cutting vegetables finely, lighting the fire – are acts that would be melacha on Shabbos itself (compare טוחן #8, מבעיר #37), which is why they are done on Erev Shabbos. MB 4: some swept the house themselves on short Fridays "so that Shabbos would not be desecrated."

Rising Early

HALACHA 250:1

The source is Rav Chisda (Shabbos 117b): a person should always rise early to prepare for Shabbos, as the pasuk says, והיה ביום הששי והכינו את אשר יביאו (Shemos 16:5) – immediately.

The Mishna Berura (1) explains, following Rashi and the Tur: the preparation is compared to the bringing. The mon was brought in the morning, as it says וילקטו אותו בבקר בבקר, so the preparation for Shabbos should also be first thing in the morning. The Taz (1) brings a different source, from the Tanchuma: "vehaya" always means "immediately," as in והיה כי קם הפלשתי.

Before or After Davening

The Mishna Berura (1) rules that "early" means right after Shema and tefilla. However:

– If he regularly learns a fixed shiur after davening, or teaches the public, he should not neglect it (end of siman 251).

– If in that place things are sold in the morning and he will not find them after learning, he should set his learning after shopping.

– If they sell early, before davening, and he will not find them afterward, he should shop and then daven. He should first say Shema, since its time has arrived. This is not included in the prohibition of attending to one's own needs before davening, since these are needs of Heaven.

The Biur Halacha (ד"ה ישכים בבוקר) brings the Pri Megadim, who suggests that according to the Tanchuma's reason ("immediately"), one should rise even before Shema and tefilla if possible, as long as he does not miss their time. The Biur Halacha explains why he did not follow this in the Mishna Berura:

– The common practice is not like this, and the Sefer Seder HaYom (cited by the Magen Avraham at the end of siman 251) clearly holds it is after Shema and tefilla.

– Shabbos was given at Marah, before the Torah was given, when there was not yet a mitzvah of Shema. Now that we have the mitzvah of Shema at the time of rising, which is a constant mitzvah, it comes first.

– The time of Shema is still considered "early." We see this from the pasuk about Golias, והערב השכם, which Chazal explain was to prevent the Jews from saying Shema in the morning and evening. So the first three hours of the day are still "early."

He also questions the Seder HaYom, who wrote that if the congregation is davening one should not leave it. How could a rabbinic tefilla b'tzibur override preparing for Shabbos, which may be d'oraisa? It is better to daven alone later than to daven with the tzibur and then find nothing left to buy.

Friday or Thursday

Buying 2) on Friday is better than on Thursday, since it is more recognizable that it is for Shabbos. But for something that needs much preparation, such as meat that must be salted, one should buy on Thursday. If the meat available on Thursday is lean and he may find fatter meat on Friday, it is good to wait. In the short days, the earlier on Thursday he can prepare, the better (MA 1, MB 2).

It is good to say about each thing one buys, "This is in honor of Shabbos," since speech has a great effect in holiness. Even if he prepared early, it is a mitzvah to add more at bein hashmashos, hinted in the pasuk והיה משנה – that they should prepare a second time (MA 1, MB 2).

Shammai and Hillel

The Magen Avraham (1) and Mishna Berura (2) bring the approach of Shammai HaZakein, who would set aside a fine animal for Shabbos all week (see siman 242). Hillel had a different approach, trusting that Hashem would provide each day. Many Poskim agree that Hillel also holds Beis Shammai's way is better. Hillel acted as he did because he trusted that Hashem would certainly provide a finer portion for Shabbos, and he did so to strengthen his trust. But for anyone whose trust is not so strong, Hillel agrees that Shammai's way is better – certainly with something not commonly available, which will not spoil.

The Darchei Moshe brings the Or Zarua, and the Bach and Rashi on the pasuk זכור את יום השבת agree. The Ramban in his commentary on the Chumash holds the halacha is not like Shammai.

Tasting the Food

It is a mitzvah to taste each dish on Erev Shabbos, to make sure it is prepared properly (MA 1, MB 2). The Shulchan Shlomo adds that tasting each kind on Shabbos itself is certainly a mitzvah, hinted in the words טועמיה חיים זכו.

Preparing Personally

The mitzvah of kavod Shabbos 3) is on every person, as it says וקראת לשבת עונג לקדוש ה' מכובד, and a mitzvah done personally is greater than through a messenger (MB 3). The Magen Avraham (2) adds that this applies to every mitzvah. The Gemora (Kiddushin 41a) teaches this principle, with examples of Amoraim who prepared for Shabbos themselves.

The list of Amoraim in the Mechaber comes from the Gemora (Shabbos 119a).

An Obligation?

The Biur Halacha (ד"ה ישתדל) points out that the Rambam (Hilchos Shabbos 30:6) uses the language "chayav": "Even if a person is very distinguished and is not used to buying things in the market or doing household chores, he is obligated to do things needed for Shabbos himself, for that is his honor." He explains that this means some of these things. Perhaps even for the Rambam it is not a full obligation, only a kind of obligation because of kavod Shabbos; otherwise all these Amoraim would not have interrupted their learning for it. The Gemora uses the word "obligation" only for lighting Shabbos candles (Shabbos 25b) and the three meals (Shabbos 117b). The Biur Halacha leaves it with tzarich iyun.

Teshuva and Cleaning

The Mishna Berura (3) brings from the sefarim that every Erev Shabbos one should contemplate teshuva and examine his deeds. Shabbos is called "the Queen," and it is like greeting the King; it is not fitting to greet Him dressed in the worn rags of sin. One should remove spider webs from the house on Erev Shabbos (Eliyahu Rabba), and certainly sweep away the dust while it is still day. All this is kavod Shabbos. He should imagine that a human king is coming to stay with him – how he would clean the house and make the beds – and certainly for the Shabbos Queen (Chayei Adam).

This Is His Dignity

"Every person" 4) includes even the most distinguished, especially in the short days, and certainly when it is close to Shabbos, when he is obligated to work with all his strength. The Mishna Berura (4) writes: "I have seen anshei ma'aseh, great Torah scholars, who swept the house themselves in the short days so that Shabbos would not be desecrated. This is a complete obligation on every person – what difference is there if he has no one to prepare for him, or the messenger has no time?"

Kavod Habriyos

The Biur Halacha (ד"ה כי זהו כבודו) brings the question of the Chavos Yair: how could the Amoraim be lenient with their own honor, when kavod habriyos is so great that it overrides prohibitions? The Mechaber answers: 5) this is his dignity. When he does the mitzvah himself, it is recognizable that he does it in honor of Hashem, as Dovid HaMelech said, ונקלותי עוד מזאת. It is different when it is not recognizable – such as an elderly talmid chacham and a lost object, where it would diminish his honor – since not everyone knows he is doing a mitzvah (Pri Megadim).

Sharpening the Knife

The Rama writes to sharpen the knife on Erev Shabbos. The Taz (2) finds a hint in the pasuk והכינו את אשר יביאו: the word "es" hints at a knife, as in לאתים ולמזמרות. The Mishna Berura (5) brings a source (ובספרי) that attaches it to the pasuk וידעת כי שלום אהלך – this is sharpening the knife – since if the knife is dull, it can sometimes lead to quarrels.

Running on Erev Shabbos

The Biur Halacha (ד"ה ישכים בבוקר) asks why the Rambam omits the din of rising early. The Gemora (Bava Kamma 32a) rules like Isi ben Yehuda: one who runs and causes damage is liable, but on Erev Shabbos at bein hashmashos he is exempt, since he runs with permission. If there is a mitzvah to rise early, one running in the morning for Shabbos needs should also be exempt. He suggests that although there is a mitzvah to run for a mitzvah (siman 90:12), Chazal exempted him from damages only close to evening, when time is pressed and he cannot watch himself. Therefore the Hagahos Asheri's ruling there is not compelling, and that may be why the Choshen Mishpat quotes only the Gemora's language.

SHULCHAN ARUCH & MEFORSHIM

ישכים בבוקר ביום הששי להכין צרכי שבת, ואפי' יש לו כמה עבדים לשמשו ישתדל להכין בעצמו שום דבר לצרכי שבת כדי לכבדו, כי רב חסדא היה מחתך הירק דק דק; ורבה ורב יוסף היו מבקעים עצים; ורבי זירא היה מדליק האש; ורב נחמן היה מתקן הבית ומכניס כלים הצריכים לשבת ומפנה כלי החול; ומהם ילמוד כל אדם, ולא יאמר: לא אפגום כבודי, כי זה הוא כבודו שמכבד השבת:

הגה ויש להשחיז הסכין בערב שבת, כי זהו מכבוד השבת שמכין עצמו לאכילה (כל בו וב"י בשם ספר חיי עולם):

1 One should 1) rise early 2) on Friday to prepare what is needed for Shabbos. Even if he has many servants to serve him, he should make an effort 3) to prepare something for Shabbos himself, in order to honor it. For Rav Chisda would cut the vegetables finely, Rabba and Rav Yosef would split wood, Rabbi Zeira would light the fire, and Rav Nachman would arrange the house, bring in the utensils needed for Shabbos and clear away the weekday utensils. 4) Every person should learn from them and not say "I will not lower my dignity," 5) for this is his dignity – that he honors Shabbos.

RAMA One should sharpen the knife on Erev Shabbos, for this is part of kavod Shabbos, since he prepares himself for eating [Kol Bo, Bais Yosef in the name of Sefer Chayei Olam].

COMMENTARIES, IN ORDER OF THE TEXT

> He should rise early in the morning. It is better to buy on Friday than on Thursday, and he should say about everything he buys, "This is in honor of Shabbos" (Kesavim). See siman 572:1, where it is implied that one should buy on Thursday; see the Seder HaYom. Even though he prepared early, it is a mitzva that he also add at bein hashmashos, as it says, "and it shall be double etc." (ש"ל; Bais Yosef).

And even though they said Hillel had a different trait, this is the explanation: even though all his deeds were for the sake of Heaven, he had this trait; but Hillel too agrees that the trait of Beis Shammai is preferable. So it is implied from the incident of the butcher, that one should act like Shammai. End quote. The Ramban wrote in his commentary on the Chumash that the halacha does not follow Shammai; and in siman 242 it is implied like the Or Zarua." End quote. So ruled the Bach at the end of siman 242, and so wrote Rashi on the Chumash, "Remember etc."

He should rise early – on the Magen Avraham. In 572:1, Magen Avraham 1; see there; and in the Tosefos Shabbos, os 1: there it speaks of things that require much preparation, as written in 575:4; see there. If so, something that requires much preparation, like meat to salt and the like, one should buy on Thursday (printed: ח'); and whatever does not require so much preparation, one should buy on Friday. What he wrote regarding Beis Shammai and Beis Hillel – see the Taz, 242, at its end. What he wrote, that so wrote Rashi on the Chumash (Shemos 20:8) – in the Re'em there: [it is] according to all that with a nice item that is not available at all times, even Hillel agrees that he should set it aside for Shabbos; their dispute is with things that are always available, and in this one can say the halacha follows Beis Hillel; see there.

מ"ש מצוה לטעום עסי' רמ"ט ס"ג ומ"מ י"ל טועם ופולט עסי' תקס"ז ס"א ולידע אם צריך מלח ותבלין:

What he wrote, "it is a mitzva to taste" – see siman 249:3; nevertheless one can say he tastes and spits out (see siman 567:1), and [it is] to know whether it needs salt and spices.

TAZ 1 ט"ז (א)

ישכים בבקר. שנא' והיה ביום הששי אין והיה אלא מיד שנא' והיה כי קם הפלשתי:

He should rise early in the morning. As it says, "and it shall be on the sixth day" – "and it shall be" means only "immediately," as it says, "and it was, when the Plishti arose."

PRI MEGADIM (MISHBETZOS ZAHAV) 1 on Taz 1 פרי מגדים – משבצות זהב (א)

ישכים עט"ז עב"י תנחומא וא"י למה שבקוה למ"ש הטור הביאו הלבוש והכינו את אשר יביאו דומיא דהבאה דהיתה בבקר דכתיב וילקטו אותו בבקר ואפשר בקר ד' שעות והיה מיד מצוה ביום ששי מיד אם אפשר ובלבד שיקרא ק"ש ותפלה בזמנה עא"ר א' ואף דצרכיו אסור לעשות קודם שיתפלל עסי' פ"ט ס"ג צרכי שבת מצוה הוה ומותר קודם שיתפלל ואין לחסיד להתחסד להאריך בתפלה בע"ש יותר מדאי א"ר אות א':

He should rise early – on the Taz. See the Bais Yosef: the Tanchuma. I do not know why they left aside what the Tur wrote, which the Levush brought: "and they shall prepare that which they bring" – like the bringing, which was in the morning, as it is written, "and they gathered it in the morning"; and possibly "morning" [means] four hours. "And it shall be" – immediately: it is a mitzva on Friday immediately, if possible, provided he reads Krias Shema and davens in its time; see the Eliyahu Rabba, 1. Even though it is forbidden to do one's own needs before davening (see siman 89:3), the needs of Shabbos are a mitzva and are permitted before davening. A pious person should not be overly pious by lengthening his davening on Erev Shabbos too much (Eliyahu Rabba, os 1).

להכין בעצמו שום דבר לצרכי שבת כדי לכבדו

To prepare himself

MAGEN AVRAHAM 2 מגן אברהם (ב)

להכין בעצמו. וה"ה בכל מצוה מצוה בו יותר מבשלוחו:

To prepare himself. The same applies to every mitzva: [doing it] himself is a greater mitzva than through his agent.

PRI MEGADIM (ESHEL AVRAHAM) 2 on Magen Avraham 2 פרי מגדים – אשל אברהם (ב)

להכין בעצמו עמ"א ר"פ האיש מקדש ואף מדרבנן מצוה בו יותר מבשלוחו והיינו במקום דאין חילול כמו בת"ח כמ"ש בט"ז הא כשיש חילול כבודו גדול כ"ה דוחה ל"ת בדרבנן ושוא"ת אף בד"ת וכבר הארכנו בפרט הזה במקום אחר אין עת האסף פה:

To prepare himself – on the Magen Avraham. The beginning of perek HaIsh Mekadesh. Even with a Rabbinic [mitzva], [doing it] himself is a greater mitzva than through his agent. That is where there is no disgrace [to him], as with a Torah scholar, as written in the Taz; but where there is disgrace to his honor – great is human dignity, which overrides a negative commandment in Rabbinic matters, and [through] passive inaction even in Torah matters. We already elaborated on this detail elsewhere; this is not the time to gather it here.

ויש להשחיז הסכין בערב שבת

And one should sharpen

TAZ 2

ויש להשחיז כו'. מדכתיב והכינו את אשר יביאו הך את נרמז בו סכין מל' לאתים ולמזמרות:

And one should sharpen etc. Since it is written, "and they shall prepare es that which they bring," this es hints at a knife, from the language "for plowshares (le'itim) and for pruning hooks."

פרי מגדים – משבצות זהב (ב)

PRI MEGADIM (MISHBETZOS ZAHAV) 2 on Taz 2

ויש עט"ז והכינו א"ת מלת את כמו לאתי"ם ולמזמרות ישעיה ב' ד' יע"ש עיין במ"כ בשרש את. ובספרי דריש לה וידעת כי שלום אהלך זו השחזת סכין ב"י יע"ש והט"ז נקיט טעם ספר חיי עולם הובא בב"י:

And one should – on the Taz. "And they shall prepare es" – the word es, as in "for plowshares (le'itim) and for pruning hooks" (Yeshaya 2:4); see there; see the מ"כ under the root את. The Sifri expounds it: "and you will know that your tent is at peace" – this is sharpening the knife (Bais Yosef; see there). The Taz took the reason of the Sefer Chayei Olam, cited in the Bais Yosef.

מ"ש המחבר והוא לשון הטור כי זהו כבודו א"ש בזה מ"ש בשו"ת חו"י סימן ר"ה איך הקילו בכבודם הא גדול כ"ה כו' דזהו כבודם בעוסק במצוה וניכר שעושה כן לכבוד הש"י וכה"א ונקלותי עוד מזאת משא"כ אם אין ניכר כמו זקן ואין לפי כבודו באבידה וכדומה יע"ש ברכות י"ט ב' ור' א' ועמ"א ב' וא"ה שם יבואר:

What the Mechaber wrote – and it is the language of the Tur – "for this is his honor": with this, what is written in the teshuvos Chavos Yair, siman 205, fits well – how were they lenient with their honor, since great is human dignity etc.? For this is their honor, when engaged in a mitzva and it is evident that he does so for the honor of Hashem, may He be blessed; and so it says, "and I will be held even more lightly than this." Unlike when it is not evident – like an elder, for whom [handling] a lost object is not in keeping with his dignity, and the like; see there; Berachos 19b and 20a. See Magen Avraham 2; with Hashem's help it will be explained there.

בכל ע"ש יהרהר בתשובה ויש לפנות קורי עכביש בכל ע"ש א"ר אות ו' יש למעט לימודו קצת בע"ש כדי שיכין צרכי שבת לבוש והוא ממ"ש רמ"א בסימן רצ"א ס"ב בהג"ה ועמ"ש אי"ה שם באות ו' במ"א. עא"ר אות ה':

Every Erev Shabbos one should reflect on teshuva, and one should clear spider webs every Erev Shabbos (Eliyahu Rabba, os 6). One should reduce his learning a little on Erev Shabbos in order to prepare the needs of Shabbos (Levush); this is from what the Rama wrote in siman 291:2 in the gloss; see what I will write, with Hashem's help, there, in os 6 on the Magen Avraham. See the Eliyahu Rabba, os 5.

MISHNA BERURA ON THIS SEIF

MISHNA BERURA 1

ישכים בבקר וכו' – דכתיב והיה ביום הששי והכינו את אשר יביאו וגומר הכנה דומיא דהבאה והבאת המן הלא היתה לאלתר בבקר דכתיב וילקטו אותו בבקר בבקר אף הכנה על שבת תהיה מיד בבקר והיינו מיד אחר ק"ש ותפלה אך אם הוא רגיל ללמוד אחר התפלה איזה שעור קצוב או שלומד עם רבים אל יבטלנו וכמש"כ בסוף סימן רנ"א

He should rise early in the morning etc. For it is written, "and it shall be on the sixth day, and they shall prepare that which they bring etc." – the preparation is like the bringing; and the bringing of the man was immediately in the morning, as it is written, "and they gathered it morning by morning." So too the preparation for Shabbos should be immediately in the morning – that is, immediately after Krias Shema and davening. But if he is accustomed to learn a fixed amount after davening, or he learns with the public, he should not cancel it, as written at the end of siman 251.

ואם דרך המקום ההוא למכור בבקר ולא ימצא לקנות אחר למודו לא יקבע למודו אלא אחר הקניה ואם רגילין למכור בבוקר השכם קודם התפלה ולא ימצא לקנות אחר התפלה יקנה ואח"כ יתפלל אך יראה לקרות ק"ש מקודם כיון שכבר הגיע זמנה ואין זה בכלל מה שאמרו אסור לעשות חפציו קודם שיתפלל שזו חפצי שמים היא:

If the custom of that place is to sell in the morning, and he will not find [what] to buy after his learning, he should set his learning only after the purchase. If they are accustomed to sell early in the morning, before davening, and he will not find [what] to buy after davening, he should buy and afterward daven; but he should take care to read Krias Shema beforehand, since its time has already arrived. This is not included in what they said, that it is forbidden to do one's own affairs before davening, since these are the affairs of Heaven.

MISHNA BERURA 2 משנה ברורה (ב)

ביום ששי – והוא יותר טוב משיקנה ביום ה' שהוא מינכר יותר שהוא לכבוד שבת אם לא בדבר שצריך הכנה רבה כמו בשר למלוח וכדומה יש לקנות ביום ה' אך אם הבשר שמוצא ביום ה' הוא כחוש ויש ספק שימצא ביום ו"ו שומן וטוב ימתין על יום ו' [אחרונים] ומסתברא דבימים הקצרים כל מה שיכול להקדים ההכנה ביום ה' עדיף. וטוב שיאמר על כל דבר שקונה זהו לכבוד שבת כי הדבור הוא פועל הרבה בקדושה. ואע"פ שהכין בהשכמה מצוה היא לכתחלה שיוסיף גם בין השמשות ורמז לדבר שנאמר והיה משנה [כלומר שיכינו שנית].

On Friday. This is better than buying on Thursday, since it is more evident that it is for the honor of Shabbos – unless it is something that requires much preparation, like meat to salt and the like, which one should buy on Thursday. But if the meat he finds on Thursday is lean, and there is a possibility that on Friday he will find fat and good [meat], he should wait for Friday [Acharonim]. It is reasonable that in the short days, whatever preparation he can do early, on Thursday, is preferable. It is good that he say about everything he buys, "This is in honor of Shabbos," since speech accomplishes much in holiness. Even though he prepared early, it is a mitzva l'chatchila that he also add at bein hashmashos; there is a hint to this in what it says, "and it shall be double" [that is, that they prepare a second time].

כתיב בתורה זכור את יום השבת לקדשו ודרשו ב"ש שתהא זוכרו מאחד בשבת נזדמן לך חלק יפה תהא מתקנו לשבת ואמרו על שמאי הזקן שכל ימיו היה אוכל לכבוד שבת היה מוצא בהמה נאה אומר זו לשבת מצא אחרת נאה הימנה אוכל הראשונה ומניח השניה על שבת נמצא שהאכילה היא כדי שתשאר היפה של שבת אבל הלל הזקן מדה אחרת היתה בו שהיה אומר ברוך ה' יום יום יעמס לנו צרכנו. והסכימו הרבה פוסקים שגם הלל מודה שכדברי ב"ש עדיפא טפי אלא שהיה בוטח בה' שבודאי יזמין לו לשבת מנה יפה משאר הימים וכדי לחזק מדת בטחונו היה נוהג כן אבל בשאר כל אדם שאין בטחונו חזק כ"כ גם הוא מודה דכשמאי עדיפא טפי ופשיטא בדבר שאינו שכיח לקנות כשיזדמן לו דבר שלא יהיה נפסד אזי יניח אותו לשבת.

It is written in the Torah, "Remember the day of Shabbos to sanctify it," and Beis Shammai expounded: you should remember it from Sunday – if a nice portion comes your way, prepare it for Shabbos. They said about Shammai the Elder that all his days he ate in honor of Shabbos: if he found a nice animal he would say, "This is for Shabbos"; if he found another nicer than it, he would eat the first and set aside the second for Shabbos. It turns out that the eating was so that the nice one would remain for Shabbos. But Hillel the Elder had a different trait, for he would say, "Blessed is Hashem, day by day; He provides us our needs." Many poskim agreed that Hillel too agrees that the way of Beis Shammai is preferable; but he trusted in Hashem that He would certainly provide him a nicer portion for Shabbos than on other days, and in order to strengthen his trait of trust he would act so. But for all other people, whose trust is not so strong, he too agrees that Shammai's way is preferable. Obviously, with something not commonly available to buy, when such a thing that will not spoil comes his way, he should set it aside for Shabbos.

מצוה לטעום מכל תבשיל בע"ש כדי לתקנן יפה כהוגן ועיין בספר שלחן שלמה דהטעימה בשבת מכל מין בודאי היא מצוה ורמז לזה טועמיה חיים זכו:

It is a mitzva to taste from every dish on Erev Shabbos, in order to prepare them nicely and properly. See the Sefer Shulchan Shlomo: tasting from every kind on Shabbos is certainly a mitzva, and a hint to this is "those who taste it merit life."

MISHNA BERURA 3 משנה ברורה (ג)

להכין בעצמו וכו' – דמצות כבוד שבת מוטל על כל אדם וכדכתיב וקראת לשבת עונג לקדוש ה' מכובד ומצוה בו יותר מבשלוחו וה"ה בכל המצות מצוה בו יותר מבשלוחו ועיין בבה"ל.

To prepare himself etc. For the mitzva of honoring Shabbos is incumbent on every person, as it is written, "and you shall call Shabbos a delight, the holy [day] of Hashem honored"; and [doing it] himself is a greater mitzva than through his agent. The same applies to all the mitzvos: [doing it] himself is a greater mitzva than through his agent; and see the Biur Halacha.

כתבו הספרים יהרהר בתשובה ויפשפש במעשיו בכל ע"ש כי שבת מקרי כלה מלכתא וכאלו מקבל פני המלך ית"ש ואין נאה לקבלו כשהוא לבוש בבלויי הסחבות של חלאת העונות ויש לפנות קורי עכביש שקורין שפי"ן וועב"ש מהבית בע"ש [א"ר] וכ"ש שצריך לכבד הבית מהאבק והעפר מבעוד יום וזהו הכל בכלל כבוד שבת וידמה בדעתו כאלו יבוא אליו להתאכסן מלך ב"ו כמה מכבד הבית ומציע המטות וכ"ש שבת מלכתא [ח"א]:

The sefarim wrote: one should reflect on teshuva and examine his deeds every Erev Shabbos, since Shabbos is called the Queen Bride, and it is as if he greets the King, may His Name be blessed; and it is not fitting to greet Him dressed in the tattered rags of the filth of sins. One should clear spider webs, called shpinvebs, from the house on Erev Shabbos [Eliyahu Rabba]; and all the more so one must sweep the house of dust and dirt while it is still day. All this is included in honoring Shabbos. He should imagine as if a king of flesh and blood were coming to stay with him – how much he would clean the house and make the beds; all the more so Shabbos the Queen [Chayei Adam].

MISHNA BERURA 4 משנה ברורה (ד)

ומהם ילמד כל אדם – היינו אפילו החשוב יותר ובפרט בימים הקצרים ומכ"ש כשרואה שכבר הוא סמוך לשבת שאז הוא מחוייב לעסוק בכל כחו וראיתי אנשי מעשה גדולי תורה שהיו מכבדין הבית בעצמן בימים הקצרים כדי שלא יתחלל שבת וזהו חיוב גמור על כל אדם דמאי שנא דאין לו מי שיכין או שהשליח אין לו פנאי:

And from them every person should learn. That is, even the most important; especially in the short days, and all the more so when he sees that it is already close to Shabbos, when he is obligated to engage [in the preparations] with all his strength. I saw men of deeds, great in Torah, who swept the house themselves in the short days so that Shabbos would not be desecrated. This is a complete obligation on every person – for what difference is there [between this and] where he has no one to prepare, or the agent has no time?

MISHNA BERURA 5 משנה ברורה (ה)

כי זה הוא וכו' – ובספרי מסמיך לה אקרא וידעת כי שלום אהלך זו השחזת הסכין כי אם קהה הסכין יוכל לבוא לפעמים לידי קטטנה ח"ו:

For this is etc. In the Sifri it is attached to the pasuk, "and you will know that your tent is at peace" – this is sharpening the knife; for if the knife is dull, it can sometimes lead to a quarrel, Heaven forbid.

BASIS OF THIS SEIF Kavod Shabbos | Oneg Shabbos

– Meat, wine and delicacies "according to his means" (the seif; compare Rambam 30:7).

Melacha: None.

According to His Means

HALACHA 250:2

The Mishna Berura (6) refers back to the earlier discussion of "according to his means" 6). The Mishna Berura in siman 242 (1), which cites our seif, explains why meat, wine and delicacies are mentioned: each place should delight in Shabbos with the foods and drinks that are considered a delight there. Since most people's main delight is meat, wine and delicacies, the Shulchan Aruch says to have plenty of them according to his means.
